

PUSH Buffalo Tenant Advocacy Campaign

Although we are leading the way in creating new, quality, affordable low-income housing in the city of Buffalo NY, the need is still great because the demand for it outweighs the supply of it. Adding to this dynamic is the fact that there is a movement among big corporations to redevelop many of Buffalo's long standing low-income, affordable apartment buildings, and complexes into luxury apartments and condominiums.

Housing is a human right, and people from the low-income communities of the city (which includes many of the working poor) shouldn't be forced out on the street by "market forces". In one of America's most impoverished cities this is simply unacceptable.

Aminah Johnson spends many hours a week in working with and land lords dealing with issues. This initiative was started to help renters, and tenants (and landlords) deal with housing issues. If you have an issue and think our Tenant Help Advocacy Team can help, contact PUSH Community Outreach Coordinator and Tenant Help Advocate Aminah Johnson at 716-884-0356 for assistance, or email her at aminah@pushbuffalo.org.
